Healthpointe, one of Southern California's leading healthcare organizations, has announced that Dr. Gabriel Martin Del Campo is their newest FAA-certified medical examiner in the city of Colton.

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) physical examination is available for all fledging pilots seeking to obtain their physical aviation certificates. Pilots hoping to navigate airplanes, helicopters, gyroplanes, or airships are required to complete their FAA-certified medical examinations prior to partaking in any form of flight training. Healthpointe's expertly trained physicians, including Dr. Del Campo and Dr. Anthony G. Rodas, are ready to diagnose and treat the various medical conditions that could prevent someone from passing their exam.

Dr. Del Campo is currently administering FAA physical examinations at Healthpointe's Temecula clinic; he will continue to practice at this location both during and after his expansion to the Colton clinic.

In addition to being FAA certified, Dr. Del Campo is also accredited as a Medical Review Officer by the American Association of Medical Review Officers and has been appointed as a Qualified Medical Evaluator by the Industrial Medical Council. Dr. Del Campo will be offering commercial pilots and students the chance to take their second and third class FAA exams at the Colton and Temecula Healthpointe clinics.

For more information on Healthpointe's FAA exams please schedule an appointment through <http://www.Healthpointe.net> or call (800) 856-2663.
