What's This?

If you or someone you know has been injured at work, local and affordable treatment is available at Healthpointe in Colton. Healthpointe's Colton clinic provides occupational and industrial medicine services to clients and employers in the area. Board-certified medical specialists work closely with patients who have been injured at work, with the goal of treating their injuries and returning them back to work. Patients can receive care from orthopedists, neurosurgeons, general surgeons, podiatrists, physiatrists, psychologists, neurologists, physical therapists, and other trained experts specializing in work related injuries.

Along with caring for work-related injuries, Healthpointe's Colton clinic provides on-site safety training and ergonomic assessments, pre-employment screenings and physicals, physical therapy, and pain management. Doctors at Healthpointe work with employers and clients by putting injured workers on modified work while they recover from their injuries. If an employer can't accommodate the injured worker

Healthpointe has a transitional return to work program that allows the employee to remain working. Healthpointe's occupational medicine specialists treat each patient with excellent individualized care which allows for faster patient recovery and lowering total claim costs.

"In Colton, our employer clients have anywhere from a handful of workers to thousands of employees," says Joy Medina, Director of Client Services. "We opened a clinic in the Colton area to give our clients reliable medical treatment and quick access to occupational care for their injured workers". The list of occupational and industrial services Healthpointe offers includes but is not limited to: onsite diagnostic testing, functional capacity exams, work conditioning programs, Return to Work and Wellness programs, in-house pharmacy, as well as client/employer online access to patient stats and downloadable forms through their website.
